

MC CALL HASN'T RESIGNED YET, PAINE SAYS

HEARD THE CHIMES, THEN SOUGHT DEATH

Boston Man, After Merry Welcome to New Year, Ends Life with Gas in Hotel.

Denies Report that N. Y. Life President Went Out on Saturday.

NO WORD FROM MC CALL

"No One Here to Discuss Matter" is Said at President's Town House.

A report published to-day that John McCall had tendered his resignation as President of the New York Life and that it had been reluctantly accepted by the Board of Trustees is denied by Assistant G. Paine, of the housecleaning committee appointed a month ago by the trustees, with it generally accepted that the end is in view of ultimately getting McCall out of the company for good.

The report of the McCall resignation was circumstantial and asserted that it was handed him New York Life trustees at a meeting of the Board held on Saturday. As a matter of fact, the Board of Trustees of the New York Life Insurance Company did not hold

"And I ought to know," said Mr. Paine, to a reporter of The Evening World to-day. "There was no meeting of the Board on Saturday last. I have not been away from New York, and therefore I am positive. If there had been such a meeting, I think I should have been there if anyone attended."

Charles Mackay, another member of the New York Life's housecleaning committee, is also in ignorance of McCall's resignation.

"I have not read the published report," he telephoned to The Evening World. "But I can say that I don't know anything about any resignation of Mr. McCall."

In addition to fixing the time of the acceptance of McCall's resignation on Saturday last, the report went on to say that it was agreed among the trustees, in deference to a wish of Mr. McCall, that the matter should not be made public until tomorrow.

Peace of Mind Suffered.

It was further asserted that the McCall resignation was considered in a letter which was sent that the President of the New York Life had come to the point of deciding to resign his connection with the company "quietly and without confusion." When he felt it best to take such a step, "Following that McCall had suffered a peace of mind by reason of the continued misrepresentation and misunderstanding of himself and his actions by the newspapers during the time of the legislative inquiry, his health had suffered and he resolved to take a long rest, which would be the best thing for himself and the company."

There was reluctance upon the part of the trustees, the printed report declared, or to let McCall go, but when it came plain to them that he was determined to resign, they were compelled to accept his resignation with appropriate regret."

A reporter of The Evening World asked if the McCall resignation was the result of a change. When it was urged a question who made for confimation or denial of the report of the resignation at the meeting of the trustees, the answer was out on a hunch:

"There is no one here to discuss it."
